★ LATIN LESSONS ★

Anyone who has ever traveled south of the border knows that Latin America is a place of magic and dangerous beauty. In the mountain jungles, the revolution-torn cities and the infamous "Road of Death" that cuts through Bolivia, there is a sense that strange things can happen at any moment. The weirdness pervading great South American post-war literature (García Márquez, Borges et al.) is evident in your every breath. But you venture on, because you can't help yourself. You're seduced—by the cuisine, the beaches, the alpine slopes and, of course, by the women. Has anyone ever tasted anything so exotic as a Oaxacan mole? Has the human eye ever gazed upon scenery more striking than the snowcapped peaks of Patagonia? Or the ancient ruins of Machu Picchu? In the end, however, none of these things compare to the wonder of a samba dancer's hips or the mysterious dark eyes of a Colombian fashion model. Latin American women are the source of this place's magic. In this one-of-a-kind Playboy Special Edition, we feature quite a few of these women in one place—naked in all their glory. Our photographers swept from the Rio Grande south to the Strait of Magellan, capturing all this beauty. You'll meet Rocio Magallan of Buenos Aires, Mariana Contreras of Girardot, Colombia, and Juliana Salimeni of São Paulo, among many others. They await you inside, right now. All you have to do is turn the page....

A woman with long dark hair is posing nude in an industrial setting. She is sitting on a dark, textured surface, possibly a piece of leather or a tarp, which is draped over wooden planks. She is looking towards the camera with a slight smile. Her right hand is resting on her chest, and her left hand is resting on her thigh. She is wearing a thick black chain necklace. The background consists of dark, rusted metal beams and pipes.
